

Investment Objective

The objective of the Fund is to generate a constant stream of cash flows by investing into Reverse Convertibles (RCs), Structured Notes, derivatives and cash or cash equivalent instruments.

Investment Strategy

The Fund will invest primarily in Auto-Callable Reverse Convertible and other Structured Notes related to equity, currency, commodities and indexes, derivatives and cash or cash equivalent instruments [for liquidity purposes]. The investment process is designed to harvest markets' volatility and convert it into cash flows whilst controlling the idiosyncratic risk of any single name investment exposure and the related business sector via concentration limits.

Major Fund Allocation changes

In April 2025 two new notes were launched, RCF56 and RCF57 (carrying coupons of 14% and above) in order to deploy net inflows of approximately a $ 6.9m.

The Net Asset Value (NAV) decline mirrored the monthly performance of the US major equity benchmark that was affected by ongoing geopolitical tensions — particularly those related to the new trade policy by the US administration- and the resulting jump in realized volatility.

The Fund remains fully invested.

General Considerations on the stock market

In April 2025, the US equity reference index declined by 2.1% with an impact on the Fund NAV compounded by the increase in stocks volatility that went from 22.3 (at the end of March 2025) to 24.7. There was also a further drop in the average yield for 12-month residual life of the US Treasuries, which closed the month at 3.85%

Important Risk Considerations
■ Counterparty risk a party that the Portfolio transacts with may fail to meet its obligations which could cause losses. ■ Custodian risk insolvency, breaches of duty of care or misconduct of a custodian or sub-custodian responsible for the safekeeping of the Portfolio's assets can result in loss to the Portfolio. ■ Derivatives risk derivative instruments are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the underlying asset that they are based on. Certain derivatives may result in losses greater than the amount originally invested. ■ Exchange rate risk changes in exchange rates may reduce or increase the returns an investor might expect to receive independent of the performance of such assets. If applicable, investment techniques used to attempt to reduce the risk of currency movements (hedging), may not be effective. Hedging also involves additional risks associated with derivatives. ■ Liquidity risk the Portfolio may not always find another party willing to purchase an asset that the Portfolio wants to sell which could impact the Portfolio's ability to meet redemption requests on demand. ■ Market risk the value of assets in the Portfolio is typically dictated by a number of factors, including the confidence levels of the market in which they are traded. ■ Operational risk material losses to the Portfolio may arise as a result of human error, system and/or process failures, inadequate procedures or controls.
